Fiscal Year 1960

1. Paragraph 5 - Rewrite to read as follows:

Research on the economic aspects of Soviet programs for guided missiles and space vehicles, directly or indirectly in support of the National Intelligence Estimates in this field, will continue to be directed toward closing the important gaps in U. S. economic intelligence on the principal organizations and facilities engaged in the Soviet guided missile production program, and in determining the capabilities of various industrial sectors of the economy to support this program. Significantly increased attention will be devoted to determining the location and scope of Soviet guided missile deployment activities, particularly for long-range missiles; assessing Soviet operational capabilities with these weapons systems; and evaluating the economic factors involved in Soviet missile deployment programs.

2.

3. Add the following paragraph:

The comprehensive program of updating of Sections 64, Manufacturing and Construction, of Bloc country National Intelligence Surveys will continue, with Hungary, Rumania, Communist China, and North Vietnam scheduled for study during Fiscal 60.

Fiscal Year 61

Add the following paragraphs:

1. In Fiscal Year 61 it is proposed to continue, improve and increase pursuit of the objectives indicated for Fiscal 59 and 60. Particular attention is expected to be focussed on the increased provision of collection aids and assistance, on interpretation of needs of the intelligence community with respect to the Bloc industrial economics, and the development of capability to supply these needs.
2. The Area's research effort on the economic aspects and deployment activities of the Soviet guided missile program will continue at an increased pace during Fiscal 61. This expanded effort will reflect the movement of increasing numbers of Soviet missile systems from research and development status to series production and operational deployment.
